

According to Responsive Classroom, a “Morning Meeting is an engaging way to start each day, build a strong sense of community, and set children up for success socially and academically.” To this end, we have created a set of slides to use as a share or as an activity in a K-5 morning meeting. All of the images in these slides relate to aspects of Ghanaian culture such as art, communities, economy, history, nature, and more.

For the images, consider teaching and using the following frameworks to encourage students to interact with photographs:

- See-Think-Wonder Framework
- Visual Thinking Strategies
- Look, Write, and Draw!
- Practice Looking at Art
- Play “I Spy” with the images, encouraging students to look closely and look at patterns, etc.
- Sensory Observation—What would the object sound like, feel like, smell like, etc.
